Complete primary election returns in Douglas county show some close races and reveal some surprises and disappointments to candidates. A. W. Jefferis, republican, for congress, carried the county by a wide margin and, while Sarpy and Washington county returns are incomplete, it is more than certain he has carried the district by a comfortable mapority. Saunders comes second and Blackburn third, Jefferis carried Omaha, South Omaha and the Douglas county precincts, making his home victory quite distinct.

The republican race for county attorney was close and late returns turned the tidin favor of Kinsler, when is seemed early the game Hollister would beat. Brewer wins for coroner and Adkins, McGilton and Swanson for state senator. The republican representative ticket, as shown above discloses some changes from the early returns. Best. Harvey, Tucker, Barnes and Leeder, former members, won. Stone and Foster broke in on late returns.

The democratic interest centered chiefly n the race for governor and the Dahlmanites have the satisfaction of winning in the county. His majority is overwhelming, particularly in South Omaha. Howell, Ransom and Tanner seem to have won out for the senate on the democratic ticket. This is the corporation slate. For the republicans Ure wins over Rice in the city district for county commissioner and Walsh gets it in the Third district. While the poll books showing the nomination of candidates for membership on the Water board and the Board of Education were returned to the city clerk in scaled envelopes with no copy, an unofficial count shows the nomination of Sherman, demoerat, for the Water board, no unofficial count can be secured of the republican candidates for this board or of the candidates on either party for the Board of

POLICE SAY IT WAS A SUICIDE

No Pistol is Found On or About the Victim, Who Had Been Out and Had Just Returned

Dr. Frederick Rustin died at Clarkson Memorial hospital at 7 a. m. Wednesday from the effects of a pistol shot through the liver. The cartridge was a thirty-eight caliber and was fired at about 3 a. m. supposedly by himself with suicidal intent while Dr. Rustin was on his front porch at 4168 Farnam street, or on his way home, a few yards up the street.

The first information the police received of the tragedy was at 7 a. m. It was telephoned them from the hospital. Drs. J. P. Lord and Langfeld performed an operation there, but in vain.

"I am positively convinced that Dr. Rustin committed suicide," said Chief of Police Donahue yesterday afternoon after he and Chief of Detectives Savage had made a long and searching investigation of all the facts at their command. They spent some two hours in consultation with Mrs. Rustin at the family home and they, with Mrs. Rustin, made a vigorous search for the revolver, but falled to find it. Mrs. Judge Taft and Senator Foraker meet Rustin at first felt sure her husband had the reviewing stand at the national been murdered, but finally concluded with Grand Army of the Republic reunion and the officers he killed himself.

Difficulty is being experienced in tabuating the returns of Nebraska's primary election. The figures were not gathered in the various county seats except where local contests called forth this activity by candidates and it will undoubtedly be several days after the official cunvass in the counties before complete figures may be secured. The governorship in the democratic party overshadows other contests, but in a number of counties no effort has been made, even by local democrats to collect the figures and the opening of the ballot boxes will be awaited for their revelation. While Mayor Dahiman of Omaha appears at present with a substantial lead, growing out of his big plurality in Douglas county, it is conceded that Shallenberger is making steady gains over the mayor in southwestern and the middle western ounties whereever figures are obtainable, Dahlman expects to make substantial gains in the northwest, but it has been suggested a'so that in some instances populist votes have been counted in with democratic votes for him. He made a killing in Butler and Sarpy counties, leading over Sha enberger. But in Butler, the home of the populist, Berge was high man. While Dahlman men profess to be greatly encouraged, they are obliged to admit that Shallenberger's chances for victory appear well grounded.

The scnatorial contest in the Third district, between Edgar Howard and J. S. Latta, which at the outset trended toward Latta, now seems somewhat more close. Incomplete returns show the two candidates to be running neck and neck. Senator Aldrich, who is running against E. H. Hinshaw in the Fourth yesterday threw up the sponge and conceded Hinshaw's
